

100,000 HAIL SMITH'S BOOM

BORAH, STORMY
PARTY PETREL,
IRKS LEADERSSenator a Problem in Coming Congress.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Consider the case of United States Senator William E. Borah (Rep., Idaho), as a political leader.

He has been and is more and more considered as a political leader.

He is an anxiety to the distance to the congressional elections next year.

Senator Borah is the chairman of the senate's [Chapman Peck].

most distinguished committee, the foreign relations committee. By virtue of that commanding position he is ranked as one of the big party leaders, who is supposed to accept the party platform as his political bible and to be zealous in furthering the party program as laid down in that declaration of principles.

Supposed to Aid Party.

Also by virtue of that position he is supposed to be a loyal supporter and advocate of the administration whose efforts at all times should be dedicated to promoting administrative policies in a view to perpetuating Republican rule.

But, as it turned out, however, that he is functioning as neither party nor administration leader, and is manifesting independence of conviction and action in making his political decisions.

That is making orthodox G. O. P. men madder and madder. Commission is heard that he is against all party and the administration policy to a greater extent than Democrats, even; and that, if he goes on throwing monkey wrenches into the machinery all set to grind out the party program of legislation, the G. O. P. will be in a bad way when the people come to assess its accomplishments in the election next year.

May Suffer Summer's Fate.

To such a pass have things come that a row over the position of Borah in the party hierarchy is regarded as one of the possibilities of the approaching session of congress and some are even wondering if in the end the chief senator will suffer the fate of Charles Sumner under circumstances entirely parallel.

Sumner was chairman of the foreign relations committee and the overhauling power in congress. He disapproved the policies of President Grant and fought them in the senate. He was to thwart Grant's plan to annex Santo Domingo, pocketing the annexation treaty to prevent favorable action. Then Grant caused his forcible removal from the chairmanship.

It is within the power of the Republican majority in the senate to remove Senator Borah from his chairmanship.

If President Coolidge gives the word it is not doubted that such action would be taken. Up to date, however, there is no evidence that Mr. Borah has fallen from grace at the White House.

He Cuts a Wide Swath.

Much as Senator Borah is the foremost orator and debater in congress he is extremely formidable and an important factor in the fate of any measure. If he is for a measure its supporters feel that they have the game on their side.

The senator's chairmanship of the committee has been anomalous from the start, from the traditional standpoint of teamwork between the administration and the party majority.

As he generally is found in opposition to the administration, his leadership devolves on some lesser figure.

Mr. Borah was the President's choice for the nomination for Vice President in 1920, but the senator refused.

He was largely instrumental in the confirmation of the appointment of Charles Becker Warner to the navy secretary. He fought the nomination of the Isle of Pines treaty, and the administration, but was defeated in that.

Opposes the World Court.

He is opposed to the adherence of the United States to the world court, sponsored by President Coolidge. He has denounced the settlement of the Mexican debt as too favorable to the Mexicans and is preparing to fight the settlement unless it is on the same terms as the British.

Mr. Borah also advocates the recognition of Russia, which Mr. Coolidge has taken issue with.

His administration on the exclusion of communists, Bolsheviks,

Robber Is Shot
in Police Chase
on Gold Coast

Scores of shots were fired in Gold Coast streets last night by a detective bureau squad pursuing two men who had stolen an automobile parked in front of 1300 Astor street. The chase ended when Lieut. John McGinnis shot and possibly fatally wounded Louis Sack, 1658 West Congress street, the driver.

The bureau squad was at the Chicago avenue station when the theft was reported by Monroe Rosenthal, owner of the car. Lieut. McGinnis immediately started to the scene.

The thieves had been slow in getting started, and they were first seen by the detectives at Astor and Schiller streets.

Shots Alarm Residents.

The firing began there. Residents of the street rushed to their windows and ducked back again as the bullets whistled.

Into Dearborn street and south to Oak street led the way. His turned east, skirting through Burton place, then doubled back to Rush and north again in State park way and past the residence of Cardinal Mundelein. The detectives, still pouring lead at him and his companion, followed.

Sack went west and into Little Italy. More shots were fired as the chase led past Clark street and North avenue.

The efforts of the thieves to shake off their pursuers were fruitless and Sack was struck below the heart as he reached Newton and Oak streets after several turns.

Fortune Favors Hit Car.

The car, which had been struck by fourteen bullets, drew up to the curb and the second man leaped out and ran into an alley. He was captured later at Monroe and Leavitt streets.

At the Bridgeway hospital, where Sack was taken, it was said he might die. He said his companion was Marcus Courtin, who lived with him.

Shortly before the Rosenthal car was taken Mrs. Emily Hieronymus, 167 East Oak street, reported to the Chicago avenue station two men were trying to get away with her automobile.

Lieut. McGinnis went to the scene, but found the pair—believed to have been Sack and Courtin—had fled.

Later, on information supplied by Sack, the police recovered three machines the men had stolen earlier in the evening. They belonged to Charles Astor, 814 North State street; Walter W. Avery, 1500 North State street; and Vincent Swick, 804 Logan boulevard.

Astor's car formerly belonged to Richard Leach.

FIND BODY ON ROAD NEAR GARY;
SUSPECT MURDER

George Johnson, 600 East 6th avenue, Gary, was found dead early yesterday under circumstances that led Gary authorities to believe he had been murdered.

Passersby saw the body by the side of the lonely road leading from Gary to Carme 133, a resort four miles away on Deep river. The skull had been crushed in. There were no other marks of violence.

The automobile in which he left Gary several hours before to drive to the camp, where he was living with his parents, was discovered in a ditch half a mile away. The possibility that Johnson may have fallen from the car and fatally injured himself was discounted.

Saturday night Johnson visited relatives in Gary and took a niece to a moving picture show. She said that he was in good spirits when he left and had not been drinking. The theory advanced by Coroner E. E. Evans and the police is that he picked up some one to ride with him and this person killed him and took the car, which was later abandoned.

HUNT 2 BANDITS
WHILE VICTIM
FIGHTS FOR LIFE

Frank Karabin, 59 years old, a sheet metal worker, 230 East 106th street, is fighting for his life at Pullman hospital, two bullet wounds in his abdomen. Police of south side stations are searching for two colored bandits who shot him.

"I had only $2 in my pocket, but I was determined they'd never get that," Karabin said during an interval of consciousness.

The bandits accosted Karabin at 103d street and the Pullman company switch tracks. The robbers drew revolvers and demanded that he "shell out."

Instead of complying, Karabin struck the gun from the hand of the nearest robber and grappled with the other, who fired twice. The Negroes took their victim's $2 before fleeing.

Picnic Ground Owner Is Shot by Negro Trespasser

Otto Schwert, proprietor of the Germantown picnic grove in the village of Ellendale, five miles west of Oak Park, was shot three times and probably fatally wounded by one of two colored men while in his grove. He was taken to the Oak Park hospital. Police of the village say Schwert was shot when he ordered the colored men out of his grove.

Hanging Jury
Cell for Tate

Marion, Ill., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—The Williamson county "hanging jury" failed to hang and Robert Tate and Ruby, his wife, face prison terms for the poisoning of Joe Herrington, Ruby's first husband.

After being out fourteen hours and taking thirty ballots, the juryman compromised on a thirty year penitentiary term for Tate and twenty years for Ruby.

Cost Directed Verdict.

The guilt of the pair, who had confessed to piling arsenic "an inch thick" on the food Herrington was to eat at his job in a coal mine, had little to do with the verdict. What the jurors considered, they admitted, was what the trial would cost the county.

On these grounds it was virtually agreed that a verdict of guilty with a sentence of fourteen years for each of the defendants would be brought in, should there be a failure to compromise on a heavier sentence.

Frank Gillespie, foreman of the jury, said the highest vote that he counted for Mrs. Tate was sixty-five years.

After many ballots the compromise of twenty years was reached.

Judge Hartwell as he excused the jurors complimented them upon their verdict and told the attorneys for the defendants that they scored a victory in saving their clients from being hung or imprisoned for life.

Defendants Are Calm.

The defendants took the case calmly. Tate, smiling, talked of appealing the verdict, but when he was taken back to jail he started singing and whistling and called from his cell on the ground floor to the cell of his wife on the second floor. Sheriff Galligan said they were happier than they had been for months and that he does not expect an appeal.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 27.—[AP.]—The Boston Herald tomorrow will say that officials of the Ocean Steamship company, owners of the steamer City of Rome, which rammed and sank the S-51, are in possession of an affidavit which declares the submarine was in charge of "two student rookies" when she was struck. The affidavit was made by a member of the City of Rome's crew and quotes one of the three survivors of the crash picked up by the steamer.

Rob Evanston HOMES DURING CHURCH HOUR

A daylight burglar broke into four Evanston homes yesterday during church hour and fled with several hundred dollars worth of jewelry, $83 in cash and a revolver.

W. T. Amadio, 229 Sheridan road, lost several pieces of jewelry worth more than $100. Jewelry and some valuable papers were taken from the home of Mrs. E. G. Christiansen, 1913 Harvard street. From the home of Gunnar Anderson, 14 South Boulevard, $83 in cash and a watch worth $25 were stolen, while the burglar armed himself with a revolver taken from A. G. McCall, 1119 Hull street.

FIGHT ON WITH LITTLE HOPE AT GRAVE OF S-51Crane Is Unable to Lift Submarine.

New London, Conn., Sept. 27.—[AP.]—No response from the interior of the submarine S-51, sunk off Block Island, has been obtained by the relief expedition working at the spot where the submarine went down, it was reported officially to the submarine base here tonight.

A message from Rear Admiral H. H. Christy, in charge of the relief operations, said that a 100 ton crane had attempted to lift the submarine late this afternoon but had failed in the attempt.

Little Chance of Rescue.

With only the faintest hope that their efforts would be successful, the naval men, aided by civilian wrecking crews, continued their strenuous efforts to rescue the 34 officers and men who went down with the submarine.

The S-51 was sunk in collision with the steamer City of Rome Friday night.

Unavoidable delays and the testimony of divers who reported that there could not possibly be life in the crushed hull of the submarine, on its ocean bed, 128 feet beneath the surface, saddened but did not discourage the rescuers.

Compressed Air Failure.

Repeated attempts to raise the sunken craft by means of compressed air pumped from her sister vessel, the S-50, failed, and tonight naval officials awaited impatiently the coming of the great derrick ship Monarch, due at 4 a. m.

While the rescue forces admittedly labored with slight hopes, officers at the submarine base still refused to see the darker side of the picture.

Relatives and friends of members of the S-51 crew, frantic with suspense, besieged the base today, and all were advised not to abandon hope.

Lieutenant Commander Flanagan, the base executive officer, insisted that when the submarine was rammed a large number of the crew were in a position to lock themselves behind the watertight doors of the torpedo and motor compartments in the bow and stern of the submarine.

Safe for 72 Hours.

There, provided the air held out, they would be safe for at least 72 hours, which would give the derrick ship time to make the attempt at raising her.

Officials in charge of the rescue work admitted tonight that the delay in raising the S-51 afforded the most desperate aspect of the situation. The most optimistic estimate as to the length of time men might live in the compartments was 72 hours, and two-thirds of that time has passed since the sinking.

Chief Torpedoman J. W. Ingraham, the first diver to go down, said there was no possible chance that any of the imprisoned men were alive.

Found Hatch Wide Open.

"I made up my mind to this one minute after I reached the vessel and found the conning tower hatch wide open," Ingraham said. "There is a hole in the port side three feet wide and 8 or 9 feet long, located between the deck gun and the cut water shaft of the conning tower."

"As I walked about deck, stamping and kicking on the hatches as a means of communicating with the crew, I saw air bubbles coming out around the hatches, all of which are closed with the exception of the conning tower hatch. I was sure then that the whole boat was filled with water."

Ingraham reported that he "made all the holes he could," and put his hand on the hatch covers to see whether there was any vibration from possible answering knocks within. There was no sign of life whatever, he said.

Woman Gossip
Adds Spice to Jail Scandal

New and startling disclosures are expected today when Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson resumes his search into the county jail scandal for evidence as to who shared in the bribe money paid by Terry Druggan and Frank Lake and as to what extraordinary privileges the two cars of beer received in return.

Druggan and Lake, who have told of paying thousands in tribute to Capt. Wesley Westbrook, ousted warden at the jail, will be ready today with new charges hitherto untouched, according to insistent rumors yesterday.

The old time crime adage: "Find the woman," was raised from several sources, and it was strongly indicated that a woman affair, closely entwined in the charges already revealed, will add zest to the maze of intrigues which have been exposed.

Hint Baring of $50,000 Offer.

There was also the report that Lake would resume the witness stand today to tell of an offer by which he and Druggan through the payment of $50,000, might and their troubles in the jail. Instead of being constantly bled for more bribe money and suffering abuse when they refused it, they could end the whole matter, resuming a status as ordinary, poverty stricken prisoners, entitled to fair treatment.

And while the rumors flew thick and fast about the federal building, where Druggan and Lake, the two stellar actors in the scene, are confined in the marshal's office, friends of Capt. Westbrook in Austin formed a committee and began to raise funds to conduct his defense.

As for the woman angle, the rumors had it that the amorous affair was of many months' standing, and that there were clandestine trips out of the city which might lead to a consideration of Mann act prosecutions. While the reports have been spread rather hazily over some period, it was only yesterday that they crystallized and were revealed, it is said, as having a definite bearing on the case.

It All Depends on Lake.

Frank Lake is the man who holds the key that may open the door to the romantic episode, according to one source, it being added that Lake may tell of it when he is placed back upon the witness stand. And again, Lake, with the lordly manners that he has exhibited, may tell nothing.

But it is considered a certainty that he will expose the visits to his cell of the messenger who for $50,000 was to smooth out the inmate's existence in the jail of Lake and his pal.

In the midst of persecutions visited upon the two prisoners by their jailers, according to the story of this new angle, and while they were enjoying a brief respite from filthy cells and filthy cell mates, a police sergeant came to Lake's cell in the hospital ward.

Hinged on Resignation.

"I am very close to one in power here," the policeman told Lake, it is reported, "and if you will pay $50,000 that one will resign and permit some one else to assume his job that will deal at least fairly with you, if not gently. Think it over."

Lake turned down the proposition. It is said, and ten days later the policeman returned, stating that if it were not accepted Lake and Druggan would be sent back to cells and would lose their comparatively comfortable hospital beds. Furthermore, that five doctors would examine Druggan and pronounce him fit to work despite his serious illness.

The policeman was assured that Druggan, really ill, would pay $100,000 if he could get out of the jail entirely and in to some sanitarium, but that

Brennan Is Genial Host.

George E. Brennan's organization put on a big show for the New Yorker. The genial boss of the local Democracy smiled as he looked over the great throng that spread out under the trees of the forest preserve, the acres of automobiles that blocked the roads and fields, these evidences of vitality and enthusiasm in the party that is reaching out for more and more in the way of high office.

There were candidates there for everything, from President to sheriff. Every ward organization was on the job with flying banners and boosting placards and the roll of the worthy was so long that Mayor Dever, who had the role of chief of parade, was pointing the way to greater service, had to stop for lack of time. He named many of the department leaders and said he was proud of the fact that there have been "no scandals" during his administration.

Mayor and Smith in Accord.

There was no rift in the broad appeal for support made by the vet. H. B. of New York and the mayor of Chicago, who had drawn the praise of the dregs for his efforts at law enforcement. They both avoided this subject. If the mayor intends to be a candidate for a second term he gave no word of it yesterday to his followers. He contented himself with telling of his record and the accomplishments of his party. He said nothing, however, to discourage those who are urging him to enter the field.

An airplane circling and looping close to the heads of the multitude, dipping in and out of the trees with a great roaring, interrupted the mayor's address and frightened many in the crowd.

Weather Is Ideal.

The gray clouds of morning had disappeared by the time the automobile parade escorted the governor reached the picnic grounds. The wind was blowing in cool gusts, but the sun was so warm that Gov. Smith removed his overcoat just before he mounted the speakers' stand.

They were yelling for "Al" long before he began his speech, which was made without preparation except the jettisoning of a few subjects on the back of an envelope marked "Executive Mansion, Albany."

The governor had begged off from a long speech. He has been going constantly since July 4, he explained, and "can't speak out of doors any more."

Heard from N. Y. Polit.

"My pipe got hot and smelt up," he explained, referring to his throat, which was hoarse from the strain of the recent campaign in which he won the Hyman-Herskovitz combination out of business in New York.

The mayor, in presenting Gov. Smith, said that he had been inquiring about him in New York and had learned that "our distinguished guest stands forth today in the public opinion of the nation not only as a great Democratic leader but as one who is generally regarded as the most popular, the most competent, and the most brilliant party leader in the nation.

"In my time in this city," the mayor concluded, in yielding to the insistent demands for "Al," "no man has ever come to Chicago, whatever his politics or his mission, who has been so cordially welcomed as has Gov. Smith."

Smith Shows His Modesty.
The band played the Smith anthem. "The Sidewalks of New York," and then the strains of "Turnabout" as the governor stood before the cheering crowd. He opened with a little story that showed his modesty.

"In the fall of 1921," he said, "I was down in Hot Springs and while there attended a movie and a news reel came on the screen with my picture and the information that I had just been elected governor. Two men were sitting behind me."

"What about this fellow?" asked one.
"Well, he went all through New York singing a song about sidewalks and they elected him," said the other.

Two Cities Feel Alike.
"I expected a warm welcome in Chicago because I have grown to think that the feelings of New York and Chicago are very similar. They are made up of the same kind of people and think along the same channels. All the big cities have the same problems pressing for solution."

There is a propaganda now being circulated that the heavy burden of taxation is from local sources and that the federal government is effecting a wonderful economy. We ought to speak the facts. The reductions in national expenditures are large due to the changing of the country from a war to a peace basis. In the states and cities an attempt is being made to catch up with public improvements delayed by the war. During the war the government requested the states not to use men and materials required for war. There was a lull in improvements.

Government Standing Still.
"It is not entirely fair to the cities and state to seek to put the blame there."

"I am about to return to New York to begin an active campaign for the elimination of dangerous railroad crossings. We have more than 4,000 such crossings, and under the present rate of progress it would take 250 years to make them safe. We are proposing a $200,000,000 bond issue for this purpose."

"No piece of progressive legislation ever was enacted without a long struggle against the forces of reaction."

"In the last 20 years we have passed through a period of the greatest material achievements the world has ever known. We have seen the complete development of the automobile, the submarine, the airplane, the radio. One thing has stood still, and that is the processes of government, particularly in the states and at Washington."

Outlines Consolidation Plan.
"We have proposed a remedy in the consolidation of all the standard activities of government, to take off the burden of the state and put it in our state. It was tried in Illinois, but the Lowden consolidation by statute, but lacking the power of constitutional backing, his successor in office promptly sought to undo the whole thing."

"We propose to reduce 133 departments to 21 constitutional departments and to compel all new activities to come into these departments."

"Senator Curtis has suggested, I read in an editorial, that the scattered activities at Washington, if consolidated, would effect an annual saving of about $200,000,000. In the fall of 1921 the then secretary of the postal department held this system up to ridicule, showing that road activities are in five departments, wild life in six departments."

"We are on a fair way to solution of some of these problems, to the end that the governments keep harmonious step with business, science, medicine, and the great developments of the last 20 years."

The governor closed with a tribute to his friend, George Brennan, and said that he hoped to come to Chicago again soon for a more extended visit.

Claude Smith, assistant commissioner of public works, and Martin J. O'Brien were the only other leaders who had a place on the program.

Gov. Smith, Mr. Brennan and the party of Chicagoans which had gone to escort him from Albany arrived in the morning and were met at the La Salle street station by a crowd of less than 1,000.

Confers with Leaders of Party.
After a visit to his apartment at the Blackstone he attended service at Holy Name cathedral and then returned to the hotel for lunch. Among the leaders who talked with him there were Joseph Guffey, national committeeman from Pennsylvania; David Lawrence of Pittsburgh; Martin Lueck and James Callahan of Milwaukee; W. J. Quinn of St. Paul, and a delegation from Nebraska consisting of the three delegates at the last convention who voted for Smith all through the balloting.

James Farley of the New York boxing commission, Judge James A. Parsons of the Rock Island; Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, national committeewoman from Illinois; Mrs. Anna L. Smith, former committeewoman; and most of the local Democratic leaders, were in the rooms at various times.

Starts Back Home.
Among the visitors from other states it was quickly agreed that if the Smith campaign was started now that he could gather in many more state delegations than he had at the last convention. Pennsylvania, California, Iowa, Nebraska, Wisconsin, Minnesota, were delivered with surprising ease and rapidity.

Mr. Brennan is ready to have another bout with the McKidoo forces if necessary and is still determined to defeat the ambitions of that group.

Gov. Smith left for New York at 5:40 o'clock last evening.

DEVER PROUDLY REVIEWS RECORD FOR PICNICKERS

Mayor Dever took advantage of the gathering of one hundred thousand Democrats yesterday in the Beverly Hills forest preserve to give an accounting of his administration's activities. Requesting a verbal reference to the sensational exposé which is disturbing Cook county Republican leaders, the mayor proudly applauded the mayor's boast that "no scandal has attached to any public office during my regime."

Although illness prevented his attendance at the picnic, President A. J. Cornak of the Cook county board was put forward as a candidate for governor in 1928. In making the first gesture toward future state campaigns the Democrats skipped the battle of 1928, when the state ticket will include candidates for United States senator, state treasurer, and state auditor.

perintendent of public instruction. While Gov. Smith and Mayor Dever occupied the spotlight some of the surest results of the 1926 county campaign received due attention from their admirers in the crowd. These included County Treasurer P. J. Carr for sheriff and County Clerk Robert M. Sweitzer for reorganization as regular organization candidates.

The police department, completely demoralized when he went into office slightly more than two years ago, has been reorganized so that Mayor Dever asserted, Chicago is "the most law abiding great city in America" — with the possible exception of New York, and I make that exception only out of deference to our guest."

A similar revamping of the fire department has brought about a material reduction of fire insurance rates, and the executive head of the city government, and people naturally and properly look to him for protection from all forms of criminal activities.

"The infinitely small minority who flout the law attract much more attention than their law abiding fellow citizens," the mayor continued. "They get names and crimes into the newspapers and through the sensational character of their activities they parade themselves in such a manner that they give the impression they are more numerous and dangerous than they really are."

Older New South Water Street.
The mayor pointed to the widening and double decking of South Water street, now nearly half completed, to the recent completion of the west side union station project and progress of the negotiations between the city and the interested railroad on plans for the straightening of the river, the opening of new arteries from the loop to the south side, and the erection of a $200,000,000 consolidated passenger terminal in the district.

He pleaded for the organization of a band of public spirited citizens to develop a scheme through which school assembly halls in every part of the city may be used as community social and recreation centers, in which "the normal child may experience some of the finer things of life."

"The mayor's oath of office requires him to enforce all the laws. Under the provision of the city charter he is great public improvement projects have been pushed toward completion and a comprehensive school building program is well under way, the mayor pointed out.

"You have nothing to apologize for—the Democratic organization is giving faithful, honest, and loyal service," he declared.

Crime, the mayor asserted, has been reduced to a minimum. He cited records indicating that only 120 major crimes, including homicide, robbery, burglary, larceny, and rape were committed during the first twenty-four days of September as compared with a total of 232 in the same period last year and 298 in 1925.

"If you ask me why there is such a striking decrease in crime in this city at this time, I will answer that it is due in the largest measure to the splendid and energetic work of the police department," he declared.

"To elaborate on this subject would take more time than we have today, but I live in the hope that my party will understand that my obligation to it requires that until my term of office has expired, I shall use whatever power I possess or the law bestows on me to maintain a respect for law and order in this city."

OTIS CLARK, TRIED IN HERRIN MINE KILLINGS, SLAIN

Herrin, Ill., Sept. 27.—Otis Clark, union coal miner and the first person indicted by a special grand jury in the Herrin mine killings in 1922, was shot and killed today near his home here. There were three bullets in his abdomen.

County authorities are investigating reports tonight that he had been engaged in illicit liquor manufacture. Clark was indicted for murder in connection with the killing of Supt. C. F. McDowell and nonunion workers at the Lester strip mine. When the case was tried, witnesses testified that Clark pleaded with the riot leaders to save the mine workers. He and other accused men were exonerated.

WINGS FAMILY AFTER 10 YEARS' DOUBT OF FATE

Armenian Hears Story of Turk Atrocity.

KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN, from train to train, from station to station, wherever a New York train was scheduled to arrive, an eyed, stocky little man wandered all Saturday night, scanning almost painful intently the crowds that poured through the portals.

Finally, just at dawn, he stood gazing about the Dearborn street station. Suddenly there came a shriek of recognition, and a small, dark eyed woman fairly catapulted herself into his arms, amid a babble of foreign phrases. Behind her stood a thin little girl and a bearded and sturdy boy.

Meeting Is Echo of War.

It was an echo of the war—that meeting. After sixteen years, during years of which he did not know whether his family was dead or alive, Minasian, 2653 East Avenue, was reunited with the wife he left in the village of Arpwood, Armenia, in 1909. The boy, Simon, he last had seen as a year-old infant. The girl, Sivart, 15 years old, who was born after his departure, he saw yesterday for the first time.

That sixteen year interval was crowded with adventure, privation, horror, and suffering for the mother and children.

Plans Memo After Seven Years.

During the Turk's attack on Arpwood, Mrs. Minasian had slipped into one of the walls of her home a bit of paper, on which was written the Chicago address of her husband. Seven years later, when hostilities had ended and they were allowed to return under French protection to their country, she went back to the address of her old home. Only the walls remained standing, and there, where she had slipped it, lay the piece of paper.

After seven years a letter reached Minasian, who since coming to Chicago has been a steward at the Chicago club and has amassed a respectable property, advising him that his family was saved.

PHOTOGRAPHER ELECTROCUTED WHILE IN BATH

Clifford Perry Loucks, formerly a photographer on THE TRIBUNE and other Chicago newspapers, was electrocuted yesterday at Miami, Fla., when he touched an electric light button while taking a bath. He was 30 years old and was the son of Police woman Anna Loucks of the Town Hall station. Loucks was employed on a Miami tabloid paper and had also worked in California. He was not married.

ROBBERS ROUTED IN HOLDUP OF ACTRESS' PARTY

Miss Mable Withee, leading woman in "Tell Me More" at the Selwyn theater, played a thrilling part in a near-holdup last night and is today recovering from her first experience with the criminal element.

She was driving out to the home of Mrs. Marie Armstrong Hecht, 3018 Sheridan road, wife of the writer, Ben Hecht, in a taxicab in which were her mother, Gerald Gilbert, an actor, and James H. Connelly, a photographer, 182 North State street. At Dearborn street and Walton place they saw four men robbing a pedestrian.

Their driver stopped and went to the aid of the victim. He was promptly blackjacked. Connelly went to telephone the police, while Gilbert remained to guard the women.

After disposing of the driver, the robbers came to the taxicab, and opening the door, invited the passengers out. At this time Connelly came back on the run, and the robbers, one crying "police," fled in a car which was parked at the curb.

AMNESIA VICTIM CAN'T REMEMBER HIS WIFE'S NAME

Howard Stokes, 29 year old insurance collector of Highwood, is suffering from a peculiar lapse of memory. When he reached home yesterday after an absence of eight days, he could not remember the names of his wife and children, but he collected perfectly his telephone number.

Stokes left Highwood with a small automobile and several hundred dollars belonging to his employers, the Prudential Insurance company. Although the police and the American Legion searched for him, he was not heard from until yesterday, when he called from Joliet and announced he had just found himself and wanted to come home.

He had no recollection of what occurred to the automobile or the money. Nor can he remember the man who provided him with railroad fare home. Members of the family attribute his mental state to shell shock during the war.

WOMEN IN SHAW CAST OBJECT TO TIGHT CORSETS

[Copyright: 1925: By the New York Times.] LONDON, Sept. 27.—Actresses appearing in the Birmingham repertory theater in Bernard Shaw's "The Philanderer," have lodged a complaint with the management against the wearing of old fashioned corsets required for dresses of the period about which the play is written.

The actresses were so uncomfortable during the first performance on Saturday night in the stiff "straight waistcoat" kind of corsets that after the final curtain they went in a body to the management and intimated in a friendly fashion that if the play was to run for more than one week it must be played in modern costumes.

"Now I understand why our mothers never laughed," said one of them, "they couldn't even if they wished."

AUTO RAMS INTO FENCE; FALLS 30 FEET; 1 KILLED

Girl Dies in Crash Near Aurora Church.

Louis Goldberg, 60 years old, a retired merchant, was instantly killed yesterday when the automobile in which he was riding crashed through a wooden fence on the curve of the 23d street viaduct of South Parkway and fell to the pavement thirty feet below. His son, Leonard, and two grandchildren, Jerome, 14 years old, and Louis, 6 years old, were severely injured, but will recover.

CATHERINE LOWRY.

The party was driving to the elder Goldberg's home at 3246 Michigan avenue and was southbound. As the automobile was crossing the viaduct Leonard, who was driving, became confused from smoke caused by a short circuit in the motor of the car. His vision temporarily disturbed, he drove into a frail fence on the curve. The barrier gave way and the car hung for a moment on the edge and then toppled over.

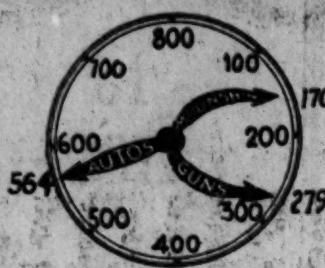

This death, with two others during the day, raised the 1925 Cook county total to 564. A small girl was killed in Aurora, in Kane county.

Sunday School Girl Killed.

Catherine Lowry, 5 years old, 11 Russell street, Aurora, was killed as she was leaving Sunday school when she was struck by an automobile driven by W. F. Davenport of Aurora. The girl was crossing the intersection at Galea boulevard and Lottist street with her father when she was struck. Davenport is being held.

Mrs. J. G. Smith, 60 years old, 747 Junior terrace, died at the Illinois Central hospital last night from injuries sustained in an accident earlier in the afternoon. Mrs. Smith was riding in an automobile driven by her son-in-law S. A. Shirley, district manager for Metro pictures, Inc., when it collided

James Hoss, 40 years old, 6539 Hoyne avenue, who was injured Saturday night when his automobile was struck by a street car at Wentworth avenue and 58th street, died late last night at St. Bernard's hospital. Earl Lawrence, 27 years old, 7128 Lafayette avenue, who was injured in the same accident, is reported in a critical condition.

SIR HARI SINGH WALKS BAREFOOT BY RAJA'S BIER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
LONDON, Sept. 27.—Cables from Lahore, India, tell vivid stories of the majestic funeral of Sir Hari Singh's uncle, the maharajah of Jammu and Kashmir. Sir Hari Singh ("Mr. A"), who succeeds to the royal throne despite the notoriety he received in the London and Paris black-mail case in which he was involved some months ago, walked the whole distance from the palace to the cemetery barefooted and dressed in sackcloth, following his uncle's coffin, which was covered layer upon layer with pure cloth of gold.

SENSES DEATH, WRITES FIANCEE, GOES TO DOOM

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 27.—(AP)—A man motored up to the home of J. W. Suther at Vernon, a suburb, today and called him to come outside. Recognizing the voice, Suther took a letter from his pocket and on the back of the envelope wrote a brief farewell note to his sweetheart in Houston, Tex.

Then he opened the front door, walked out and a few seconds later fell lifeless to the sidewalk with three bullets in his body. His valet surrendered to the police, gave him the name as Leland Harder and explained, they said, he had shot Suther because he had been intimate with his wife.

SOVIETS BAIT PERSIANS WITH WHEAT OFFER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
TEHRAN, Persia, Sept. 27.—Great riots continue in Teheran, although the government is taking steps to pacify the people. It is understood that a soviet representative here has offered the Persian government large quantities of wheat. The offer probably will be accepted as the shortage of wheat is acute. The acceptance undoubtedly will end the anti-bolshevik policy of the Persian government.

The soviet influence in Persia will reappear, and it is reasonable to suppose that the work of the American financial mission for Persian economic reform may be handicapped. However, the Persian authorities have rounded up the local Social Democrat and Labor party leaders in the service of Russian institutions here, and also the editor of a weekly socialist paper. Documents seized indicate a revolutionary movement.

ANNIELLO TADDEO SLAIN; SECOND OF CLAN IN YEAR

Police Quiz Girl, 17; Hunt
Four Young Men.

(Picture on back page.)
For the second time within a year an-nualy shotguns took their toll within the Taddeo clan in Melrose Park yesterday. Anniello Taddeo, head of the clan, and lately risen to fame and notoriety as a hoodlum king and fixer of the west suburbs, was the victim yesterday.
Two hours after Taddeo had slumped down to the sidewalk near his newly opened "Venetian" cafe, at 2111 Lake avenue, in the heart of the suburb, a 17 year old girl was being questioned about the crime by Chief of Police Henry Peip, and four young men were being sought as suspects.
The first victim of the assassination was Lazzaro Clemente, a cousin of Taddeo. He was shot to death in his back yard at 1307 22d avenue,
Melrose Park, last February.
Link Slayings Together.
One theory of authorities is that the two tragedies are linked by a single motive.
The tragedy of yesterday was enacted in broad daylight upon the principle thoroughfare of the village and despite a constant stream of suburban crowds motoring to the city.
Taddeo had southered across the street from his cafe and lounged against an automobile when and his friend, Dr. L. A. Vertuno, 161 Broadway, Melrose Park.
A sedan glided up from the west and all but halted.
"Hello, Anniello," one of the three men in the sedan called out.
Hit by Bullet and Buckshot.
Taddeo wheeled about, receiving a revolver bullet in his forehead and two charges of buckshot in his chest and shoulders. He sank without a word. Dr. Vertuno escaped injury.
An hour later two boys walking along a creek bank near 9th avenue came upon an abandoned car. It bore license number 453596, for a Ford, owned to Mrs. Anna Prete, 1302 North

FRANCE STANDS PAT ON TERMS U. S. REJECTED

Washington Startled by Latest News.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—(Special.)—France will not submit a new offer at tomorrow morning's plenary session with the American debt funding commission. Joseph Caillaux, chief of the French mission, will stand pat on his original proposals, handed to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon on Thursday last.

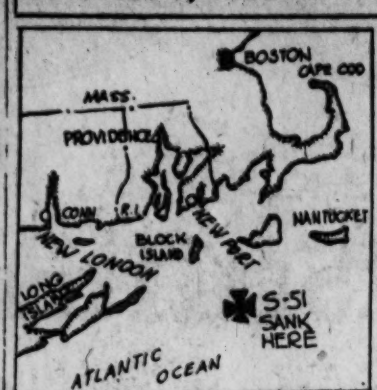

This news, announced by the official spokesman of the French delegation tonight, caused a sensation, as Caillaux himself had stated that he was proceeding with the revision of his original plan. Caillaux's sudden decision to scrap the new proposals his experts have been drafting is the result of Paris dispatches stating that indignation had swept over France at the announcement of the "severe" demands of the United States government in defining its conception of what the terms of the funding of the $4,211,000,000 debt should be.

Caillaux Told to Go Slow.
Furthermore, it is understood that Premier Painleve and Foreign Minister Briand urged Caillaux to go slowly in committing the French government to terms the parliament will refuse to ratify.

The Tribune is informed that certain members of the American commission urged Caillaux to prevent the proceedings from degenerating into a bargaining basis and urged him to continue his unofficial contacts and conversations far enough to be sure of his ground and the acceptability of his next proposal before offering it. Thus Caillaux's decision is in conformity with the viewpoint of Mr. Mellon.

What Will Happen Today.
The French official spokesman outlined this evening exactly what Caillaux's program will be tomorrow. In the first place he will read over, paragraph by paragraph and clause by clause, his original offer of last Thursday, explaining each in detail and asking for any questions or challenges.

He will endeavor to prove by the statistics he has brought with him from Paris that his figures are correct and that other information gathered by American representatives abroad does not fully cover the situation.

Caillaux will seek to impress his hearers that France's offer of annuities beginning at $25,000,000 annually, is the limit of France's capacity to pay.

Light on British Situation.

He will explain to Mr. Mellon that there has been an error in the announcement of the annuities to England and that the initial French payments to London would be $5,000,000, or less than $25,000,000. This is in opposition to the belief that France would immediately pay Britain two and one-half times what she claimed is her outside limit to pay Washington. Caillaux will request Mr. Mellon to elucidate the American statement to the French delegation and to reply to questions and objections.

It is expected that Mr. Mellon will back his statements with the treasury and commerce departments' agents' statistics, gleaned during the last two years in France and reported to Washington.

Out of this discussion is expected to result the skeleton of a composite plan, which will be a compromise of the American and French viewpoints, and the adoption of which will obviate all "horse trading" which would have accompanied a continuation of offering new plans.

"You are still optimistic?" Mr. Caillaux was asked when he entered the embassy.

"Yes, always."

No Intention of Leaving.

"Then you are not packing up to leave?" he was asked.

"O, no, we are staying on to continue the negotiations and to reach an accord," he answered with another smile.

Mr. Mellon took the French delegation by automobile to Washington's home at Mount Vernon. Then the party returned to luncheon at the secretary's residence. All the members of the American commission, except Secretary Kellogg and Mr. Hoover, were present, and Caillaux was carefully placed next to Mr. Smoot, chairman of the senate finance committee and leader of the "severe" clique.

After luncheon M. Caillaux remained with Mr. Smoot for three hours discussing the situation and seeking to reach agreement with him on certain points.

Explains Minister's Purpose.

The French official spokesman, M. Henri Dumay, said:

"M. Caillaux has no intention of making his statement and his idea of procedure sound like an ultimatum to the American commission, or to have it appear that he is attempting to force reconsideration of an offer which has already been declined. He believes his original plans susceptible of detailed explanation and defense, and he intends to explain and defend it. He will endeavor to correct certain misconceptions on the American side, some founded on material errors, others on misunderstanding of the psychological situation which dominates the matter.

"He seeks to prove to the satisfaction of Mr. Mellon and his colleagues that it would be impossible for France to accept the American viewpoint as conveyed in the aide memoire, and that even if he were to sign an agreement based on such terms, it would not live 24 hours in France after he returned and would be certain of rejection by the parliament.

"He is not set on rejecting the American suggestions en bloc, but merely insists on finding something feasible."

ROUMANIA SENDS MISSION TO U. S. TO SETTLE DEBT

Hopes to Pave Way for a $100,000,000 Loan.

By RAYMOND FENDRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Sept. 27.—The Roumanian debt funding commission, headed by Nicholas Titulesco, minister to London, will start for Washington on Oct. 10.

An interesting angle in the case of Roumanian debt is that the French government has demanded that it be paid at the same time Roumanian pays America, and it will give Roumanian the same terms that America gives it.

The French government claims 1,000,000,000 francs is due in gold, which would amount to $200,000,000. Roumanian wants to pay in paper francs, which would cut the debt to about $40,000,000. In an identical case several years ago Roland Boyden of the United States, acting as arbitrator for the reparations commission, decided that Germany, which assumed the Belgian war debt to France, must reimburse France in gold francs, and so the French claim probably will be maintained.

Roumanian Wants a Loan.
The three Bratiano brothers, who as dictators of Roumanian, decided to fund the Roumanian debt of $45,000,000 to America because their banks want to borrow $100,000,000 in New York. Their emissary, Col. Aaronovici, recently reported to Bucharest that no debtor countries could get loans in America until they funded their war debts.

The Roumanian government has a vague claim against America to the effect that Oscar Crosby, official American representative, joined the allies in ordering Roumanian to attack the Bolshevik army in Bessarabia in December, 1917, and thereby Roumanian lost all chance of recovering $70,000,000 worth of gold sent to Moscow for safe keeping.
The claim is not well established, because even if Mr. Crosby did take this action, he did not sign a letter and, besides, Roumanian obviously forfeited the gold when it seized Bessarabia later.

Had Trouble with U. S. Companies.
Roumanian also owes the British $30,000,000 ($150,000,000) and claims a reduction in this debt because the British burned the Roumanian oil fields during the war to prevent their falling into the hands of the Germans.

The Bratiano government has had some difficulties with the Standard Oil, Baldwin Locomotive, and other American interests. The government openly broke its $3,000,000 contract with the Baldwin Locomotive company after the latter had delivered ten locomotives and spare parts, and until a few days ago refused to pay almost $4,000,000 still due. In the case of the Standard Oil company, the government nationalized the oil fields.

THE AUTUMN EXPOSITION

One of our oldest and most valued traditions is this half-yearly "at home" when, fall and spring, the Store at its loveliest extends a very cordial invitation to the residents of Chicago and visitors to be its guests. The sixty-six windows are redecorated with a splendor in keeping with this event; the whole Store wears a gala aspect; and every section is radiant with new merchandise marking the supreme achievement of months of intensive preparation. Of special interest in this Autumn Exposition is the reflection of the "living art" movement now receiving dramatic expression in the Paris Exposition of Decorative and Industrial Arts.

"When an entire exposition is given up to a single field of achievement, that exposition becomes not only a milestone of progress and a measuring gauge, but a prophecy. The Paris International Exposition is wholly devoted to the importance of design in the industrial arts. While many of its exhibits are bizarre and extravagant, it will have tremendous influence on our own products because of the work of such great artists as Brandt, Ruhlman, Lalique, Sue and Mare. To the principles of utility and beauty, they have added a joyous, exuberant spirit, a style that seeks to interpret the needs, the social and industrial phases of our own day. And, in so doing, they are an inspiration to the creative artists of America and of all other countries."

HUNDREDS DROWN AS NEW FLOOD RAGES IN CHINA

BY HERBERT ELLISTON.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
[Copyright: 1925: By The Chicago Tribune.]
PEKING, Sept. 27. — The second break in the Yellow river dyke in Shanlung province has resulted in the worst flood since 1887, according to Walter Mallory, executive director of the China international famine relief commission, who returned today from an inspection trip. He reports that the flooded area is now equal in size to Delaware and is being enlarged hourly by the vast volume of water rushing southward. A part will be absorbed by the Grand canal, and eventually reach the Yangtze, but the main stream is spreading over the countryside like a sheet.

Mr. Mallory says that probably 2,000,000 persons and 2,000 towns and villages are affected. Many hundreds already have been drowned and all the crops are ruined. The governor of Shanlung has gone to the scene of the disaster, while the famine commission is rushing relief to the stranded people.

The first break, caused by the swollen waters of the Yellow river, submerged 400 square miles, swept away everything in its path and inundated the region to a depth of fifteen feet, Catholic missionaries told the famine commission official.

The tremendous pressure against the dykes made a second break, which it is now impossible to repair until the river falls. O. J. Todd, the commission's chief engineer, says the river may then be found to have entirely changed its course back to the old channel. The two breaches in the river lie between the Chihli border and the Grand canal, the area extending to Tsing and across both sides of the Grand canal.

WOMAN RULER IN INDIA TRIES TO ENTHrone SON

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
LONDON, Sept. 27.—Shrouded by veils, seven covering her eyes as a silk mask, the begum of Bhopal—India's only woman potentate—arrived in London today for the purpose of persuading the colonial government to name her third son as successor to the throne instead of her grandson, the eldest son of her deceased first born son.

The Begum is an aged Purdah lady, whose high caste and strict religion prevented the eyes of any man except her long dead husband ever to look on her face. She is accompanied by a numerous suite of servants, native cooks, attendants, and much baggage, including a complete set of curious cooking utensils designed by American makers of aluminum ware to serve the elaborate ritual with which the queen's food must be prepared.

The begum of Bhopal is occupying a private house with her son.

Mother Tries to Kill Self and Three Children by Gas

When Charles Bell returned to his home on Burchell avenue, Highwood, yesterday afternoon, he found that his wife had placed cloths in all the cracks of the windows in the kitchen and then turned on the gas. Mrs. Bell and her three children were unconscious, but were revived. She would give no explanation.

Bride Takes Poison When Falsely Accused by Mate

Wesley Mullenix, 3223 Walnut street, accused his bride of three weeks, Florence, 21 years old, of writing a letter to another man yesterday. A sharp quarrel arose, and after the wife had shown that the letter was to her mother, she swallowed poison. She was taken to the County hospital, where her condition was said to be critical.

"Built Like a Skyscraper"

Why Do We Use This Trademark?

The famous "Skyscraper" trademark—the man jumping into the drawer of a file—originally stood for strength of construction in Shaw-Walker filing cabinets.

But the Shaw-Walker line grew fast. The same fine skill in workmanship, the same honest worth, went into every Shaw-Walker product, making it genuine "Built-Like-a-Skyscraper" quality. What was more natural, then, than to make our "jumping man" trademark the symbol of every product which Shaw-Walker sells?

Shaw-Walker sells files, safes, desks, indexing, cards, folders, guides—2700 items. Our name goes on and our reputation goes into every one of these 2700 items.

But we don't stop when we make and sell the finest filing equipment that can be manufactured. Shaw-Walker File Engineering installs this equipment in your office and makes it do the particular job you buy it to do.

CHILE GUNMEN COW PERUVIANS IN ARICA VOTE

May Hold Arica, but Lose
Tacna, View.

The Tribune has had a special American investigator studying the situation in Tacna and Arica, provinces of Chile where a plebiscite will be held shortly to decide whether they shall remain under the rule of Chile or go to Peru, from whom Chile wrested them more than half a century ago.

[CHICAGO TRIBUNE PRESS SERVICE.]
ARICA, Chile, Aug. 31.—A careful investigation of the Tacna and Arica area of Chile, where a plebiscite will be held under the supervision of Gen. Pershing to determine whether it shall belong to Chile or Peru, shows Chile holds its mastery of the situation.

While in Arica the Chileans have organized bands of gunmen to intimidate the Peruvian inhabitants, and their sympathizers, who are greatly outnumbered. All the local police and other authorities are Chilean, and they look with tolerance on acts of violence against the Peruvians. The authorities are making a pretense of maintaining law and order, avoiding street rows.

Gen. Pershing's Photo.
The Chilean authorities are maintaining a strict censorship over press dispatches. All references detrimental to the cause of Chile are deleted or the entire message is refused. The authorities also are preventing photographers from taking pictures which might reflect on the Chilean régime. For instance, a professional photographer for a foreign paper took some pictures of minor local incidents. He took the plates to a local photographer to be developed. When he returned the next day the Chilean photographer informed him that none of the plates were good. The same photographer tried to take a picture of a street fight. He was mistaken for a Peruvian and was set upon by the crowd. His camera was destroyed and he himself received minor injuries.

Both Chileans and Peruvians are carrying on an extensive propaganda service in the disputed area. The Chileans have five periodicals devoted to their cause and the Peruvians one. Most of the papers are exaggerated and bombastic, but one Chilean paper, El Morro, is well written, moderate, and patriotic. The Peruvian paper, La Voz del Sur, is published aboard the Peruvian cruiser Ucayali, which houses the Peruvian plebiscite commission.

The circulation of the Peruvian paper encounters many difficulties. Its sale in the streets is the signal for riots, although Gen. Pershing said the Peruvians have the right to distribute their paper. The Peruvian paper is unique in modern journalism, being edited by a staff of trained newspaper men from La Prensa, the leading paper of Lima, aboard the warship. It has a circulation of about 5,000 copies daily.

Peruvian propaganda is making a shrewd appeal to Latin-American sensibilities. The under dog is always championed by the Latin American. Peru is representing herself as a victim of Chile—as a nation from whom valuable provinces were wrested illegally.

However, neutrals with whom THE TRIBUNE correspondent has conversed point to the rapid progress made in the provinces following their acquisition by Chile. This is a consideration which is likely to have a strong effect on the voters when the time for balloting comes. But even this may be offset by the strong campaign of what the Peruvians call terrorism being waged by the Chilean officials.

Peruvians May Win Tacna.
While the Chileans are expected to show an overwhelming majority in Arica, the Peruvians probably will make a better showing in Tacna. The census of 1920 shows that the population of Tacna was 38,912, urban population being 25,069 and the rural 13,843. Deducting the population of Tarata, which the arbiters has ordered delivered to Peru, the population is 34,369. After deducting women and foreigners the population remaining totals 13,419. After deducting the boys under 21 and those unable to read or write, the Peruvians claim that the Chilean voters would be practically nil. While it is impossible to foretell the results of the plebiscite, the general impression of neutral observers is that Chile, because of its energy and activity, is more likely to win.

The position of Bolivia is somewhat difficult. While the majority of Bolivians appear to think the cause of Peru is the right one, they believe they would have more opportunity to win a strip to the sea if Chile should win. They believe that if Peru wins it will feel that it has only had its inherent rights restored and will be inclined to turn a deaf ear to Bolivia's overtures to negotiate for a port.

The Peruvians are active in trying to rouse up all persons in Bolivia having the right to cast a vote in the dispute provinces, and already about 600 persons have registered with the Peruvian legation in La Paz.

RUSSIAN TELLS NEW VERSION OF KILLING OF CZAR

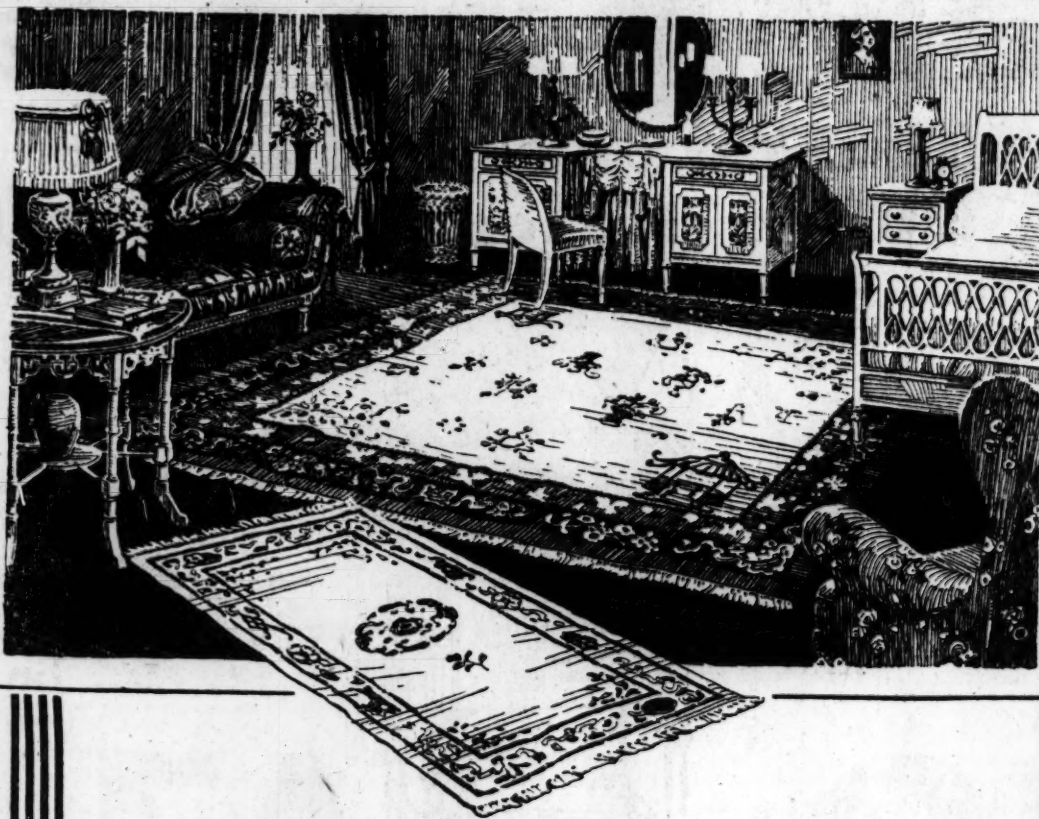

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 27.—An eye witness story of the execution of the czar of Russia and his family during the revolution was told to several British labor delegates to the trade union congress at Scarborough this week by Y. Yarchey, Russian delegate, who saw the czar die.

M. Yarchey related the narrative of the royal family's last days, telling how the bolsheviks, frightened by the approach of the white army, called out the imperial family one by one and led them along a secluded path past a spot where sharpshooters were hidden in the woods. As each member of the family passed single shots were fired from behind, hitting them in the skull, back of the ear. The czar was the first assassinated, then the czarina, then the children, relatives, and intimate servants.

M. Yarchey declared that only the czarina guessed what was forthcoming when she was summoned to take her death walk.

Hearing Restored

by the AUDIO Treatment
Our Patients
Furnish the Proof

This is not an "aid to hearing," nor an appliance to be worn in the ear, or on the person. It is a treatment administered by a sound-wave vibratory massage so perfectly controlled that persons in all stages of deafness can be made to instantly hear both voice and music.

If the arm is broken and carried in a sling for weeks, when the sling is removed, the arm is useless. Its usefulness is restored by massage and exercise. In the treatment of impaired hearing, we apply the same principle to the ear, introducing a sound-wave vibratory massage and exercise which induce normal hearing.

If the delicate bones and muscles of the middle ear have become rigid, or the functioning of the ear is interfered with, this sound-wave vibratory massage tends to loosen the rigidity, to strengthen the muscles, and induce proper blood circulation to return to these parts, aiding nature in the restoration of a healthy and functioning condition.

If you are deaf, hard of hearing, or troubled with head noises, call and let us give you a private demonstration of the Audio which makes possible the restoration of your hearing to a state of practical usefulness.

WOES OF PRINTER, TAXI DRIVER LEAD TO MERRY CHASE

Autos Collide; Hot Words, Shots Follow.

A chase featuring speeding autos, yelling taxi drivers and scattering revolver shots, began early yesterday in the vicinity of Melrose and Broadway and spread over an extensive area of the middle north side district.

After all was said and done, the object of the chase, Louis Raffetto, 29 years old, a printer, residing at 1253 Barry avenue, was locked in a cell in Town Hall police station.

Today, it is expected, he will be arraigned in municipal court on three charges: assault and battery, reckless driving, and assault with a deadly weapon.

Starts for Auto Ride.

It all began, as near as police could piece together, when Mr. Raffetto decided to take his bus out for a spin. While ambling peacefully along he picked up a friend, Policeman William Gruber, 582 Montana street, of the Lincoln park force.

But at Belmont avenue and Clark

CAPT. WAUGH TO QUIT WEDNESDAY AS AID TO U. S. PROSECUTOR

Capt. William F. Waugh, first assistant United States district attorney, will terminate his service on the staff of District Attorney Edwin A. Olson at the close of business Wednesday.

Capt. Waugh, although still in his early thirties, has had one of the most successful records of convictions as a prosecutor ever attained in the federal building.

Among the more spectacular cases Capt. Waugh has directed for Mr. Olson was the contempt proceedings against Terry Druggan and Frankie Lake, which resulted in the order for them to spend a year in jail.

He also directed the sacramental wine exposé, defendants in which now are awaiting trial.

Capt. Waugh will form a law partnership with E. C. Tourge and James S. McClellan, with offices in the Marquette building. He will specialize in federal court cases.

street the equipage of Mr. Raffetto and that of Cecil Lavender, 2322 North Western avenue, a taxi chauffeur, collided. Thereupon, having assured themselves that no bones were broken, Mr. Raffetto and Mr. Lavender proceeded to present mutual compliments of the terrorist variety.

Later, still apparently peeved, Mr. Raffetto appeared at a taxi garage at Melrose street and Broadway. Here, he became wordily involved with Adolph Maler, 1045 Grace street, and another driver.

Draws Gun on Chauffeur.
The argument waxed warm and soon it was again to accept the police version, Mr. Raffetto drew a revolver and menaced Mr. Maler.

This displeased Mr. Maler's fellow drivers—exceedingly—and, in Mr. Raffetto's own words, they "swarmed all over me."

Then the chase began, Raffetto assuming the rôle of the fox in the first car handy, and the chauffeurs, upwards of fifty, more or less, each in a taxi.

YANKEE ARMEN BOMB RIFTS TO FREE FRENCHMEN

QUEZZAN, Morocco, Sept. 27.—(AP)—The entire squadron of American aviators participated yesterday in the relief of the Douganous fort, the most important operation in the Quezzan sector in more than a month.

The outpost, topping a mountain near Quezzan, was surrounded by the rebellious tribesmen in April, and since then has been the center of violent attacks. The enemy positions were heavily bombarded by the American flyers.

The only casualty suffered was when Adjutant Soule-Nan was slightly wounded by a bullet as he passed over a hillside. Capt. Holden, whose airplane was temporarily out of commission, marched with the infantry column, accompanied by another American, Dr. V. Sparks.

Report 1,500 Casualties.
GIBRALTAR, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Reports from Cebedilla, the scene of stiff fighting between the Spanish and Moroccan forces recently, tell of a complete Spanish victory over the Rifians, but with heavy casualties. Some estimates place the killed and wounded at 1,500.

WOMAN GOSSIP ADDS SPICE TO JAIL SCANDAL

they would pay nothing if they were to get no more than any other prisoner was entitled to.

The next day, according to the story that Lake may reveal from the witness stand, he and Druggan were shifted from their soft berths and shunted into the cells they so detested. Later, according to the testimony given by both beer kings in court, they made new arrangements by which Warden Westbrook was paid $2,000 monthly, arrangements which both testified "never went smoothly."

Neighbors Rally to Westbrook.
The friends who rallied to Capt. Westbrook's support yesterday were his neighbors in Austin, where for many years he has borne a reputation of thorough honesty. A committee, calling itself the Wesley Westbrook defense committee, started at once to raise funds for William Scott Stewart, J. G. Schaefer, a political and civic leader in Austin, elected secretary of the committee, said the members believed Westbrook to be the victim of a political frameup.

Says Westbrook Is Penurious.
"I talked to Mrs. Westbrook, whom I have known for years, and the poor woman told me they haven't a dollar," Mr. Schaefer said. "If the captain got the large sums these beer runners speak of, where is it all?"

Among those on the committee are the Rev. James L. Gardiner and the Rev. Robert Clement, Mrs. John E. Northrup, wife of the well known lawyer and former prosecutor, Mrs. C. S. Carlisle, George C. Sykes, Joseph W. Webber, Mrs. Harry H. Rast, Mrs. D. E. Simon, E. W. Olmstead, Mrs. H. R. Wilson, Mrs. J. Mark Fowler, and E. E. Short.

Attorney Charles E. Erbstein, counsel for two of those cited for contempt, Henry Foerst, former secretary to Capt. Westbrook, and Henry Pendi, a guard, declared last night that Foerst might not take the witness stand, except to claim exemption from testifying on the ground he feared he would incriminate himself.

Foerst Says He Will Testify.
Foerst, however, said he was preparing to tell the entire truth, and according to Mr. Erbstein's statements in court, he will corroborate many of Druggan's and Lake's charges against Westbrook.

Attorney Robert N. Golding spent hours with his two clients, Druggan and Lake, and most of the day was consumed by Attorney Stewart in conference with Westbrook. When evening came Mr. Stewart reiterated his statement that he expected to prove Capt. Westbrook the victim of a frameup.

Druggan is to resume the stand this morning to finish telling his amazing story. After he is cross-examined Lake may be recalled, and if there is time other witnesses are to be questioned.

JAILED ON GIRL'S CHARGES; FOUND TO BE BIGAMIST

Daniel Sussana, 31 years old, who says he is a foreman for the city, was jailed yesterday charged with assault on Theresa Mitchell, 14 years old, 1358 West Erie street. Checking up on the home addresses he gave, police found he had two wives, one at 1457 West Grand avenue and the other at 2151 Anconia street, and a bigamy charge was entered against him.

Theresa complained to the police that Sussana, after inviting her for a ride, drove under a viaduct at Kinzie and Noble streets, and there produced a revolver and attacked her. The gun was found in the automobile by Lieut. Christy Hughes. Sussana denied the girl's charges, while admitting that he was keeping up two households, police said.

Praises Collins and Lyle in Punishing Policy Ring

L. F. Gates, acting president of the Citizens Association of Chicago, has written to Chief of Police Collins and Judge John H. Lyle of the Cottage Grove avenue court, congratulating them on the arrest and conviction of Dan Gaines, head of a policy gambling ring, and twenty-seven of his agents. The men were arrested by Lieut. John E. McCarthy and Policemen Sutton and Thompson at 2737 Cottage Grove avenue. Their fines totaled $1,200.

Youth Halts Police to Tell Them He Is Embezzler

Martin Warrens, 20 years old, of Sheboygan, Wis., stopped Sgt. Howard Tobin and John Cullen yesterday in West Madison street. "Take me in," he said. "They want me in Sheboygan for embezzling $700 from a brewery."

Warrens said he fled several weeks ago when he began to fear the auditors would discover his shortage. His money ran out two days ago and he was hungry.

BADGER THRILL OVER ELECTION LIKE A FUNERAL

Tomorrow's Vote May Not Equal Primary.

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 27. — [Special.]—Prelection signs, the apparent unwillingness of voters to discuss the possibilities of Tuesday's poll other than to concede victory to Robert M. La Follette Jr., indicate that an exceptionally light vote will be cast, probably no greater than the 350,000 polled at the primary.

Relegation of the regular Republican and Democratic candidates to the Independent column has developed a situation which has evidently taken all the heat out of the election.

Wagers at even money that Edward Dithmar, who stepped into the place of Ray P. Wilcox as the regular Republican candidate, will not poll 100,000 votes, have failed to elicit any interest. The voters are apparently resigned to the fact that everything will be La Follette and that holding the election is purely a waste of money.

Still Another La Follette.

With the name of Robert M. La Follette Jr. linked to that of United States senator from Wisconsin as practically a surety, the attention of the people is already directed to the possibilities which may arise in the 1926 election. The name of Phil La Follette, brother of young Bob, and district attorney of Dane county, immediately rises into prominence.

Prior to the primary it was admitted that the support given young Bob by the "Madison ring" of Gov. Blaine and Attorney General Herman L. Fern was purely of a reciprocal nature. In return for their support of Fighting Bob was expected to wield the power of United States senator in behalf of Mr. Ekern for the next governor, and for Gov. Blaine for the senatorship now held by Irvine L. Lenroot.

The name of Phil La Follette, however, has been a disturbing factor to the governor. With the results of the primary and election showing that the La Follette strength in the state is still intact, Phil La Follette is recognized as the next gubernatorial possibility.

Complications of the Situation.
This would not necessarily mean that Attorney General Ekern would be left out in the cold. Instead, it is Gov. Blaine who would be fighting to stay inside where the vote getting warmth is favorable. Mr. Ekern will be taken care of by being pitted against Lenroot for the senate. There would be no restrictions against Gov. Blaine entering the race and making it a three cornered affair.

Phil La Follette has an enviable record as district attorney of Dane county, and his political aspirations have not escaped the notice of the anti-Blaine faction, which is clamoring for a new deal in Wisconsin political pastebords. He is also known to be a close personal friend of Attorney General Ekern.

An open letter declaring that "a vote for Edward F. Dithmar for United States senator is a vote of the constitution, for Protestantism, for the public school and for law enforcement" has been circulated by the Ku Klux Klan in Wisconsin. "A vote for Robert M. La Follette Jr., is a vote for Rome because of his connection with the Romanised ring of Gov. Blaine, Han-nah, Holmes, and company of Madison," the circular reads.

OUR AUTUMN OPENING TODAY

Brilliant, colorful and infinitely smart, the accessories presented in our formal opening today, proudly proclaim the importance of elegance in both costume and accessories. The French influence is paramount, as much of the Lingerie, the Jewelry, Handbags and Perfumes have but recently been brought from Paris—and express the favorite feeling of the autumn mode, a decided tendency toward modernistic design. It is an exhibit which is only possible to a Woman's Specialty Shop whose forewords are Alertness and Smartness.

TOILETRIES

Madhve "Indian Dieties," an extract subtly suggestive of the Orient, or "Blanchette," Corday's latest and most intriguing creation are indicative of new blends of perfume. In their own unusual containers or in the new Perfume Sets of Pump and Bulb Atomizer, and Perfume Bottle, they make an attractive addition to your dressing table.

PURSES

For her tailor, Madame may choose an Envelope Purse, modernistically inclined—for afternoon teas, a bag of metallic brocade and embossed gold leather—for the dance or opera, a Mesh Bag resplendent with jewels, with enameled or rhinestone frame.

JEWELRY

From the cobwebs of antiquity comes a new feeling in jewelry. A cameo pendant mounted on a filigree frame graces a gold chain of intricate workmanship.

HANDKERCHIEFS

As dainty as milady's boudoir itself are Handkerchief Cases of satin and lace. Novelty Handkerchiefs of georgette crepe with boutonniere are decidedly Parisienne.

GLOVES

Of the softest possible French Kid, the new Gloves slip on and have embroidered tops in soft harmonizing shades—of Perrin make.

HOSIERY

The clock, endorsed by Paris, assumes lacy and wide proportions—woven into Hose of incomparable lustre and weave. The march of colors suits every costume from daybreak—to daybreak.

SHOES

Gounod, by Laird Schober & Co.

Black and gold Directoire Brocade with black satin quarters are shown with the smart, new, extremely high spike heel, and short vamp with narrow toe.

NECKWEAR—SCARFS

Bits of wispy lace, soft material and rows of tiny buttons fashion collar and sleeve sets of dainty intrigue. Scarfs are modernistic in many instances, but the filmy fluttering types, including silk, georgette crepe and metal net, with beautiful hand painted designs are charmingly feminine.

LINGERIE—NEGLIGEEES

Our Autumn exhibit shows many new ideas in Lingerie, among them, metal lace used with champagne colored chiffon—and a lovely new color—"Banane." Another smart note is the Tea Coatee which replaces the trailing Tea Gown.

CORSETS

Anticipating the train of social events our Corset Shop presents for your approval models decreed correct for the season's wear in Stevecco (made in France), Lily of France, Gardenia and Stevens Specials. Our expert corsetiers will give you individual attention.

GLOVE SILK UNDERWEAR

Softly clinging and tailored Glove Silk Vest and Step-in Sets make a slim foundation for your frocks. Trimmed with insets and edging of real filet lace, they are most luxurious.

GIFTS

A pleasant way to mark the hours of life is to give gifts—and there is no more interesting place to find them than Stevens Gift Shop where there are unusual and exclusive novelties from every part of the world. This Ivory clock and cigarette box are from Paris.

SILKS

Wondrous in design and color are the new fabrics. Exclusive foreign and domestic Silks and Velvets, shimmering Metal Brocades, plain Metal Fabrics, Brocade Crepes and English Velutinas are suggestive of a brilliant season.

BY HUGH FULLERTON.

Washington, on its performance against American league teams, has a stronger ball club than Pittsburgh, judging the Pirates by their record against National league clubs. I am not yet prepared to state that it will beat Pittsburgh, but, unless Pittsburgh's pitchers are more effective against Washington than they were in their own league, Washington will win. If Washington's pitchers are as good as they were against the average of American league batters, then Washington will win.

Figures a Revelation.
There is a stunning revelation in the dope figures on this series. Most of us have gone along with the idea that Pittsburgh has one of those irresistible, crushing attacks that will break down the defenses of Washington.

There is no doubt that the figures on team hitting indicate that Pittsburgh is the stronger hitting team and stronger in other respects. But can you select nine men who will be out there on the ball field any day in which Pittsburgh shows stronger than the Senators?

In spite of the fact that almost every one is saying that Pittsburgh has the more powerful attack, the cold figures of the performances of the two teams in their own leagues show that, with either Johnson or Hooten pitching for Washington, the Senators have a more powerful, a better sustained, and more evenly distributed assault. With Coveleski pitching, Pittsburgh has a slight advantage in attack.

Pittsburgh Has Speed.

Only in the element of speed does Pittsburgh show a superiority and how much that speed of foot will count in a world's series remains to be tested. I am not certain, as yet, whether Pittsburgh's hitting power will be greater or less against Washington pitchers than it has been against the National league pitchers. The spotty character of the hitting has not been encouraging. The batter who has been slugging away day after day against all kinds of pitching is better than the man who goes three days with one hit and then piles up three or four hits off one pitcher. In this respect, Washington shows much more consistency.

Pirate Outfielders Better.

In the comparison of the outfielders there is no doubt that Pittsburgh has a stronger and more coherent team. Rice's failure in the last world's series needs a lot of study. He is a great hitter and his utter slump against the Giant pitchers may mean something. On the infield, Washington shows more strength, more cohesiveness, and better inside work, especially on the right side of the diamond. The combination around second base, all favors Washington. Peck and Harris are a wonderful pair, and Peck's plays and bludge not far behind them. It comes down to a comparison of the worth of experience and steadiness and youth and speed in the long run. There is a question in my mind as to whether the greater speed of the Pirates on the infield will be an asset or a liability. Grantham's speed, for instance, frequently causes him to overrun and to misplay balls.

Nine Senator Hitters.

We must figure, too, that Washington's hitting strength is scattered through nine men, while the Pirate power is concentrated largely in seven. The tail end of the batting order is largely dead, although Smith is likely to cut in on a sustained attack. None of the Pirate pitchers who is to figure in this series amounts to anything as far as the quantity of the day by day. The other big factor favoring Washington is that its defense is much stronger on the first base side of the diamond than that of Pittsburgh, and in modern baseball, where right and left hitting and hitting behind bat is so well developed, that side of the infield has become more and more important.

BAKER RETURNS TO PURPLE CAMP
AT DRILL TODAY

Coach Thistlethwaite will have plenty to do to round his Purple squad into shape for Saturday's game with South Dakota. The showing of his Purple squad in a practice game with the freshmen did not encourage him, and he says a great deal of improvement is needed before his outfit is ready to enter a game. Stock may boom again when Moon Baker appears in a uniform today.

Saturday's tilt with the freshmen showed the Purple passing attack to be punting. The best gains were on passes.

The squad is due for a hard workout tonight and through the week until Thursday at least, as the coach believes that driving will bring about the needed improvement. He has been handicapped for a week with Baker, Gustafson, and Lewis on the hospital list.

A. W. Becker Wins
Traps Handicap
by Breaking 97

A. W. Becker shattered 97 clay birds to win the one hundred target handicap shoot, feature of the program at the Lincoln park traps yesterday afternoon. C. G. Burnmeister and A. Cunningham tied for second with 98 apiece.

Jim Groves topped the professionals in the singles event, breaking 93 birds out of 100. H. Bombard and P. H. Husman tied for second place with 97.

G. L. Becker and Dan Zet tied for high honors in the doubles shoot, twenty-five pairs at fifteen yards, with 46 apiece, but the former won the shoot-off. W. D. Warren and H. M. Rowley tied for second with 42. Other high scores in the singles were:

3. L. Becker, 95; W. M. Johnson, 94; A. Smith, 93; H. Galsworthy, 92; H. Mitchell, 91; O. Kausch, 90; B. G. Conklin, 89; C. Bragg, 88; A. Presnall, 87; G. Smith, 86; W. W. Searling, 85; Dr. W. A. A. A. W. Coppernall, 84.

Lott, Williams Win as Dusk Halts Net Play

George Lott and Lucien Williams, playing the games of their lives, yesterday won the first annual intersectional tennis championships for the Western association at the Chicago Town and Tennis club. They won it by virtue of the second defeat they had received during the meet when William T. Tilden and Manuel Alonso withdrew after darkness halted the doubles play, the deciding match of the day.

Each team had won one singles victory, and Tilden and Alonso had one set in the doubles when darkness made further play impossible. Both of the international Davis cup stars had other engagements for today and no date could be agreed on for the playoff.

Boys' Play Amazing.
Although their triumph was of a buxey variety, Lott and Williams are worthy of all the praise which can be given them for their great play in the finals. They astounded the gallery with their brilliant play, which had been fought to a final decision, might have brought a real victory to Chicago.

Only one of the copyrighted Tilden misdeeds saved the lanky national champion from defeat at the hands of Luke Williams, while Lott provided one of the biggest upsets of the season by crushing Alonso in three furious sets. Tilden and Alonso took the first set of the doubles at 3-1, but their youthful opponents had piled up a lead of 2-0 in the second set before Tilden complained that it was too dark for him to follow the ball.

Lott, in his match with Alonso, Spanish Davis cup captain, played a game which far surpassed anything he had previously displayed in Chicago. He sent the astounded Spaniard into defeat after three hard fought sets, 4-6, 6-3, 10-8.

Tilden Takes Usual Brace.
Tilden was within two games of defeat at the hands of young Williams, who was thought incapable of giving the champion little more than a good workout. Only that indomitable fighting spirit in the face of defeat, which is Tilden's greatest asset, saved him.

Lott and Williams through their superior teamwork seemed superior in the doubles, and only by individual brilliance did the invaders win the opening set of the match.

They made their opponents look ridiculous, especially in the opening games of the second set, which Lott and Williams won with ease.

MAX FLACK HURT

Nashville, Ill., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Max Flack, veteran outfielder of the St. Louis Cardinals, his wife and son, and two other persons were injured when an automobile in which they were riding skidded off the highway about eight miles east of here and collided with a motor bus. All the injured were taken to East St. Louis. Flack suffered a broken nose and bruises.

FIRST BASKETBALL MEETING.

Teams intended to join the Indiana basketball league are asked to have a representative present at the first meeting of the league tomorrow evening at the Windsor-Clinch hotel, room 130, at 7:30 o'clock.

Pittsburgh Looks Strong.

Pittsburgh, an imposing looking aggregation with plenty of drive and a nice assortment of plays, defeated Washington and Lee, 28 to 0. It was the first game played in the new Pitt stadium, which is one of the finest of its kind in the country. The structure has more facilities and equipment than any stadium seen in any part of the country. It will seat 70,000 and can be increased to take care of 100,000 by double decking.

Marquette, which will clash with the Navy at Annapolis on Oct. 10, defeated Loyola, 10 to 6, in a well played game. Ames, which will furnish the opposition for Wisconsin next Saturday, won over Simpson, 28 to 0, while Michigan State, which will be Michigan's opponent on the week-end, defeated Adrian, 18 to 0.

Season Opens Saturday.

The various squads will resume practice today with kindled determination for Saturday's games which officially open the 1925 gridiron season. Every member of the western conference, the Missouri Valley conference, and the big eleven of the east will play their opening games on the week-end, and from now on each Saturday will be featured by contests which will ruin the championship aspirations of many eleven.

ACACIA PRO GETS
AVERAGE OF 246 3/4
YARDS ON THREE SHOTS FROM TEE

Thousands Witness Meet
in Lincoln Park.

The Tribune wishes to thank the Lincoln park committee, the Lincoln park police, Capt. Harry Johnston, and other officials who worked hard in making the golf driving contest held yesterday a success.

BY MORROW KRUM.
Dewey Weber, professional golfer at the Acacia Country club, won the Chicago Tribune golf driving contest in Lincoln park yesterday.

Weber's average for three balls driving contest from the tee at the foot of Waveland avenue was 246 3/4 yards. He triumphed by a slender margin over a field of 147 golfers and won applause of 17,000 thousands of spectators by his powerful shots.

Second in the 17th annual contest was Henry, an amateur of Jackson park, whose average was 246.1 yards, just one foot behind Weber's score.

Weber won $200 for first prize in the open contest. Henry won a silver cup.

The Longest Drive.
The longest ball in the tournament traveled 278 yards. It was driven by P. Phillips of Lincoln park.

During the day, it is estimated that 20,000 persons watched the contest. The tournament was held at the foot of Waveland avenue, by the courtesy of Harry Johnston, superintendent of Lincoln park. The fairway was forty yards wide. The hole was to be driven three balls. The average distance of 17,000 golfers, to determine the winner.

A strong wind was blowing from the southwest. It was against the players in two ways. It held back the balls and it swept them out of bounds. The contest gave the gallery—a vivid demonstration of the reason for the game's popularity.

Elmer Shouts with Joy Over Radio Variety

Ether Brings Him a Little of Everything.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

Ministers, political orators, soloists, choruses, symphony orchestras, pipe organs—all joined hands to make yesterday a day of joy.

The important broadcast of the address by Gov. Al Smith of New York, and the address by Mayor Dever, through W-G-N at 3, need not be dwelt upon in this column.

The W-G-N 4 o'clock orchestra concert provided by the Davis company store was a repetition of the program given Saturday evening at 8:30. Noticeable here was the prevailing quietness, smoothness, the absence of anything in the announcing or in the musical program bordering on the sensational. This enhanced the effect.

At this hour, 4 o'clock, there were two soloists, comparable to each other but different. Vella Cook, mezzo soprano, at WGBN, and W-G-N, Kathryn Brown, operatic contralto, the former entering and working from within our heart, the latter approaching us from the outside and by spectacular brilliancy sending thrill after thrill right through us.

Let's imagine we are at a country cross-road, bowing our heads as a sign of respect by church bells. Fascinated we enter this little brown WLS church at 7. A male choir sings for us and a kindly voiced speaker addresses us. The memory of it is pleasant.

To WEBB, 5 to 6:15, for a tremendously impressive rendition of the entire musical score of "Cavalleria Rusticana," given by five trained soloists and the Gennaro Symphony orchestra (twenty-five members of the Chicago Civic Opera company). How those tones came thundering in!

Sometimes these tones were simple, deep and sonorous; now in complexity, then building up crescendos into powerful climaxes. In passing, let's thank Giovanni Gennaro, the conductor.

Words are getting weak and have little meaning here, for they are overpowered and made insignificant by the memory of one of the most interesting broadcasts this listener has been privileged to hear, that is, the Yon Kipper service at Medinah temple, conducted by the Temple Shalom congregation, a W-G-N broadcast. Many of the spoken words we did not understand, for they were in Yiddish. But we understood and appreciated the sacred music as expressed by the soloists, the orchestra and the pipe organ, for they were marvelous tones in color, in depth of outward expression and inward feeling.

The presiding minister thanked W-G-N for this broadcast. Most reader listeners, I am sure, will join me in this expression of profound thanks for the Temple Shalom congregation in permitting the broadcast.

The pipe organ played on until 10 o'clock; then the music died, yet it did not die for the listeners.

FLYING FLEET ARRIVES TODAY ON TEST TOUR

Nearly thirty airplanes are scheduled to arrive in Chicago at 3 o'clock this afternoon for the first stop of a 1,800 mile tour to demonstrate the reliability of commercial aviation. The tour is being promoted by the Detroit Aviation society and the flyers will be met here by a committee of judges and checkers of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

The flyers will leave Detroit this morning and, after making a brief stop at Fort Wayne, are expected to fly directly to the air mail field in Maywood. They will leave tomorrow morning for Omaha via Sioux City. In all eleven cities will be visited.

Entries are confined to manufacturers. Each plane is required to carry a pay load, which may be a passenger or freight. The minimum speed required is eighty miles an hour. A trophy donated by Edsel Ford will be awarded the pilot having fewest difficulties. Eight airplane manufacturers have entered craft.

RADIO PROGRAMS FOR TODAY

(Monday, Sept. 28.)

(Central Standard Time Throughout.)

The Illinois-Nebraska football game next Saturday, Oct. 3, at Memorial stadium, Urbana, will be broadcast by W-G-N direct from the field, with Announcer Quinn A. Ryan at the microphone describing the scene, the crowd, and the game as it progresses. Microphones will be placed in the stands and at various points of the field to pick up the songs and cheers of the spectators.

W-G-N will move down to the hour this afternoon, starting at 2:30, in order to broadcast the music of the Davis orchestra which is to play during the fashion parade that marks the fall opening of this establishment. Some of the new modes on view will be described over the air as the manikins display them. Following the fashion parade the Davis orchestra will present a special program until 3:30.

The second portion of the Jewish Yom Kippur (day of atonement) services will be broadcast this morning from ten o'clock to noon from the Medinah temple, where they are being conducted by the congregation of the Temple Shalom. The orchestra music incidental to the services will be heard together with the organ selections by Stanley Martin, and the solos by Norma Bodanis, Dorothy Greathouse, Eugene Dressler, Solma Grog, Louise Harrison Slade, and Howard Preston.

The Marshall Field & Co. tea room orchestra will be heard during "Tea time" from 3:30 to 4:15 this afternoon. Skeezix time for the children at 5:30 p. m. is to be conducted by Miss June Moody of the National Kindergarten and Elementary college.

5:57 p. m.—Time signals by the Elgin National Watch Co.; baseball scores.

6:30 to 7 p. m.—Dinner concert by the Drake concert ensemble and the Blackstone string quintet.

MONDAY NIGHT IS SILENT NIGHT FOR W-G-N.

FLYING MA TAKES UP G FOR MITC

O. K.'s Unified Force at Qu

BY ARTHUR SEARS H

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—The United States has recent number of planes and trained flyers to defend itself in the air against any first class power, according to the young flying officers who testified today before President Coolidge's special aircraft investigating committee.

Moreover, the training of flyers in the tactics of M. A. F. warfare is far from thorough and the entire is shot through with discom the conditions resulting from the organization by officials of the war department. Nearly all of the flyers of the proposal of Maj. Gen. Patrick, the air that the era be into a corps, them fav eventual unified independent army as an advocate of Col. Billy

MAJ. P. G. LANPHER (P. & A. Photo.) than we said Maj. P. G. Lanpher, commander of a bombardier group in the field. "The trouble is we not enough of them. If we had planes we could fight any power and defend ourselves in the air."

"But no power could attack the air without destroying the air," observed Dwight Morrow, man of the board of inquiry. "Well, it is only 86 miles to Alaska," replied Maj. Lanpher. "I don't think there would be a management. That is, it is, it may for planes to fly that far. I think that airplane carriers are needed to get the planes out of our shores and of much of no use."

"How many planes would be needed to defend Alaska?" asked Representative Vinson (Dem., Ga.), a member of the committee.

"It would depend on what was expected to attack us," said Lanpher.

"You think 140 planes would be enough," Mr. Vinson asked. "I'm not a qualified staff officer," Mr. Lanpher protested.

"But aren't you just as well as a staff officer are qualified in questions relating to air?"

"Yes, I think so," Lanpher replied. "The question is, the question eventually calculated that 100 planes would be adequate to defend the country in the air."

Maj. Lanpher said he is sure he has seventy-two planes in his command yesterday had only nine planes.

"What about the training you are receiving?" asked Senator Ham (Rep., Conn.).

Training Not Adequate.

"Our officers are not given proper tactical training to back by a first class power," major. "That is due chiefly of personnel and equipment. Officers are detailed on administrative duties that only one hour of tactical training is possible, totally inadequate."

Maj. Lanpher said that the much red tape involved in the approval of tactical exercises is bringing about improvement in service.

Maj. Horace Hickham, commander of the advanced flying school, said it is a question of whether there are enough qualified men in the country to fight a war. "We would have to obtain more men we would need at the war or we would run the risk of being defeated."

Maj. Hickham advocated an increase in the number of men in the service.
